Dear Folks at Gantt Street:

Thank you for your generous offerings for the Lord's work in Peru! It is always a blessing to know that you are concerned for folks around the world who need Christ. We consider it a partnership in the Gospel ministry. Our son Andy has been here with us for two weeks. Please pray for him as director of La Molina Christian Schools.

We hope to be able to travel to Albuquerque in June and then on to Peru in July. I am walking without too much pain, and the neurosurgeon said he thinks he can release me at the end of May. We are trusting that all the titanium will stay in place until the bone can fuse properly. Your prayer will be appreciated. Carolyn is doing fine, staying busy with her "zoom" Bible studies for ladies in Lima.

In His amazing grace and love,

Tom & Carolyn Pace

P.S. Please pray for Peru. According to the New York Times: "The virus arrived in Peru in March last year, like much of Latin America, and the government moved quickly to lock down the country. But with millions of people working in the informal sector, enforcing quarantines became unsustainable. Cases rose quickly and hospitals soon fell into crisis. By October, the country became the first in the world to record more than 100 deaths per 100,000 inhabitants. The actual death toll is far higher, because many of the dead have not been included in the official count of coronavirus patients....The crisis has plunged nations like Peru into grief, ripping at the social fabric. This month, thousands of poor and newly poor Peruvians began to occupy empty swaths of land in southern Lima, with many saying that they were doing so because they had lost their livelihoods amid the pandemic."
